MURDEROUS CRANK SHOOTS J. P. MORGAN

Head of Great Financial Firm Shot While in His Summer Home at Glen Cove by an Unknown Crank—Wounds are Not Considered by Physicians to be Serious.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 3.—J. Pierpont Morgan, head of the great financial firm of J. P. Morgan & Company, was shot twice while in his summer home at Glen Cove, L. I., early today by a man believed to be a crank.

The following statement was issued at the office of J. P. Morgan & Company at 10:35 o'clock today:

"J. P. Morgan was shot by an unknown man, presumably a crank, at 9 o'clock this morning at his nome at Glen Cove. His physicians advise that his wounds are not serious."

The news of the shooting of Mr. Morgan caused a sensation in the financial district where Mr. Morgan has been the leading figure since the death of his father in 1913. It was expected that there would be a big break in the stock market but the official statement from the company admitting that Mr. Morgan had been shot, but stating that his wounds were not serious was issued as soon as the first rumors were circulated.

This served to allay the excitement and it was believed that the shooting of Mr. Morgan would have no great effect on the prices of securities.

A later statement follows:

"Two shots were fired at Mr. Morgan, both of which took effect. Details regarding the wounds have not yet been received at the office of the firm. A statement from the doctors will be given out in about on hour."

Shortly before 11 o'clock a telephone message received from Glen Cove stated that the man who shot Mr. Morgan had been captured.

At the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Company, Broad and Wall streets, the reassuring news from Glen Cove that Mr. Morgan's wounds were not serious, prevented any excitement. Business went on as usual. A uniformed attendant in the lobby frankly informed all inquirers of the shooting and assured customers that the banker's life was not in danger. Scores of Wall street men who heard the report hastened to the Morgan office to learn the details for themselves, but no information was forthcoming beyond that contained in the formal statement.

Mr. Morgan's assailant was taken to Mineola, the county seat of Nassau county, immediately after his arrest. When first taken into custody he declined to give his name or tell why he had shot the banker.

Mr. Morgan was wounded in the side and in the leg, but after an examination by physicians who were immediately summoned to the banker's home it was decided that neither wound was of a serious nature.

Precautions were taken, however, to prevent any infection in case the would-be-assassin had used poisoned bullets in his revolver.

Mr. Morgan with his wife and daughters, went to "East Island," his summer home at Glen Cove, immediately after the marriage of his son, Junius Spencer Morgan, in Boston about two weeks ago.

"East Island" where the shooting occurred, is a wooded tract of land almost surrounded by water. It is at the far head of a tiny peninsula and is an extremely isolated location. The assailant could easly have slunk through the thick shrubbery until he reached a position close to the house which is a magnificent structure containing more than a score of rooms.

In the village of Glen Cove it was reported that the man who did the shooting came in on a train at 8:30 o'clock this morning and hired a carriage from the local livery stable to carry him to the estate. He is said to have entered the Morgan premises without being seen and to have confronted the financier. An altercation about some money affairs is said to have followed. Before he was shot Mr. Morgan vigorously attacked his assailant and beat him badly. Even while wounded the financier kept up his attack on the man who shot him.

Servants attracted by the sounds of the shots rushed to the scene and seized the assailant.

Dr. W. H. Zabriski, a Glen Cove physician, was hurriedly summoned to the Morgan home after the banker was shot and then word was sent to Dr. J. W. Markoe, a New York specialist, that his services were required. Dr. Markoe made the journey from Manhattan to Glen Cove by automobile, at some times traveling at a speed of nearly 60 miles an hour.

The police of Glen Cove took charge of the prisoner and held him until County Detective Phineas Seaman came from Mineola and took the assailant there.

John Pierpont Morgan is 48 years old and became head of the house of Morgan upon the death of his father in Rome on March 31, 1913. For many years before that time, however, he had been a powerful factor in the control of J. P. Morgan and Company. Mr. Morgan graduated from Harvard in 1889 and one year later was married to Miss Jane Norton Grew.

Immediately after his graduation from Harvard Mr. Morgan entered the firm of J. P. Morgan and Company of New York and Morgan, Grenfell and Company of London. From that time on his power in the business and financial world grew rapidly and be became director in many banks and corporations. Among them were:

Astor Trust Company, of New York; Harlem River and Portchester R. R.; Hartford and Connecticut Western R. R.; International Mercantile Marine Company; Milbrook Company; National Bank of Commerce; National City Bank of New York; New England Navigation Company; New England SS. Co.; New York and Harlem; New York Central and Hudson River R. R.; New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.; New York Trade School; Northern Pacific Railway; United States Steel Corporation; West Shore R. R. and the Western Union Telegraph Company.

Among the clubs of which Mr. Morgan is a member are the Metropolitan, the Union, the University, the New York Yacht, the Harvard, the Racquet and the Century, of New York City, and the St. James and City of London clubs, of London.

Like his father Mr. Morgan cared little for society and divided his time between his home and his office for the most part. He cared less for yachting than his father and his lack of interest in the art objects which his father had spent a life-time in collecting, was shown by his recent sale of a great part of the collection.

Mr. Morgan maintained a town house at 231 Madison avenue and his country place at Glen Cove was one of the finest in America. He also maintained a home in London at 12 Grosvenor Square.

Mr. Morgan inherited much of the brusqueness of his father and cared little for publicity and show. His attitude in this respect was shown when he was a witness before the Federal commission on industrial relations. The members tried in vain to get him to theorize upon the conditions existing between labor and capital and to suggest remedies for "problems." In his attitude oward business and capital Mr. Morgan has been considered reactionary; his views were old fashioned.

The financier has four children, Junius Spencer, who was married only last week; Jane Norton, Frances Tracy and Henry Sturgis.

Since the outbreak of the European war interest has been drawn toward the house of Morgan because of its appointment as fiscal agents for the allies in the U. S. His personal fortune is estimated at more than $200,000,000.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 3.—Nearly all the speculative interests in the early trading on the stock exchange this morning was attached to St. Paul, which continued in supply. This stock sustained a further loss of 2 points in the first few minutes. The opening transaction was made at 84, a decline of ¼, and was followed by a quick drop to 82, but it rallied to 83 quickly. Canadian Pacific was in good demand, rising ⅜ to 143¼. U. S. Rubber fell ¾ to 45⅝, and American smelting receded ⅝ at the outset to 78⅝. Union Pacific lost ⅝ to 127⅛. Northern Pacific declined 1½ to 105 and fractional losses occurred in Southern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and Great Northern Pfd. Amalgamated Copper opened ¼ higher but lost the gain. The general market was disturbed by the weakness of St. Paul and Northern Pacific.

Appreciate Symph''ny Society.

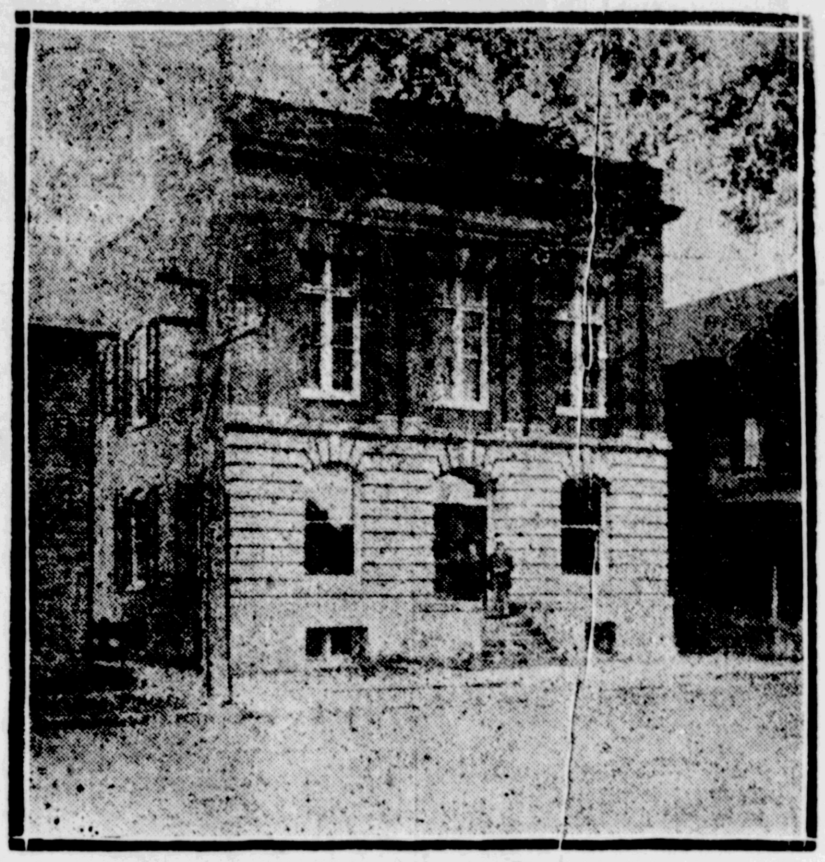
The way in which the people of Kingston are responding to the requests for patrons for the Symphony Society concerts, which from now on will mean both the three Symphony Orchestra concerts and the Musical Festival Concerts, shows that the efforts of the Symphony Society have been and are appreciated. The support of the orchestral concerts has always been gratifying, and now the people of the community have been aroused to a pitch of real enthusiasm for the work of the society, following the first Music Festival given last spring. But in order to carry on the work without unnecessary and needless delay, funds for the coming year must be assured and a sufficient sum in hand for the many running expences, hence the securing of patrons at this time.



NEW HOME OF CHARLES DE WITT COUNCIL.

CHARLES DEWITT COUNCIL BUYS TELEPHONE BUILDING

Citizens' Standard Building on Henry Street to be Used as Lodge Room and Club House for Junior Order of American Mechanics.

A contract was signed on Friday by officers of the New York Telephone Company and the trustees of Charles DeWitt Council, No. 91, Junior Order United American Mechanics, by which the building on Henry street formerly used by the Citizens' Standard Telephone Company will pass into the possession of the lodge. It will be utilized as a club house for the Mechanics and a number of improvements and alterations are planned before the lodge takes possession. The passing of the title will not take place until August 2. The Mechanics have deposited a certified check to make an initial payment on the deal. At the last meeting of the lodge the trustees were authorized to close the transfer.

Charles DeWitt Council has been showing a steadily growing membership in the past few years and now has over 600 names on the roster with new ones at every degree night. It is one of the fastest growing lodges in the city and has a substantial sum in its treasury by which they will carry through this deal. The details of the sale as to the consideration is not made public but it is understood to have been a considerable sum.

The Citizens' Standard Telephone Company, which a few years ago sold out to the New York Telephone Company, was in opposition to the old Hudson River Telephone Company for a number of years and some of the stock was held by local people. The largest stockholders were in Albany and Elyria, Ohio, where is conducted a large electrical works. The Standard was giving a more or less satisfactory service in opposition to the big company but the latter built a modern plant on Broadway which was followed soon afterwards by the Standard which also equipped a plant on Henry street with an ornate front. Shortly after the New York Telephone Company took over the local concern and has since utilized the quarters as a store house and for the use of the engineering corps. Of late these quarters have been abandoned and the entire business taken to the building on Broadway at O'Reilly street.

It having come to the attention of the members of the lodge that the building of the Standard was practically idle an offer was made to the New York Telephone Company for the purchase of the building. After passing through the hands of the local office the New York officials agreed to accept the offer and the papers were signed on Friday. On August 2 the trustees of the lodge will go to New York to sign the final papers and receive a deed for the property.

The telephone building is admirably suited for a club house for the Mechanics. It is only a few doors from Broadway on Henry street and is about 38 by 40 in dimensions. It contains a number of rooms which can be conveniently transferred into ideal club rooms on the ground floor and for a large lodge room on the second floor. The lot is 100 feet deep and will give abundant room for an enlargement of the building to make room for increasing membership. Details of the rearrangement of the building are still unknown but when the building is finally completed according to the wishes of the Mechanics it will be one of the finest club houses in the city.

BIG NAVAL BATTLE ON IN THE BALTIC

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Petrograd, July 3.—Russian and German warships have met in their first big naval battle in the Baltic and the Czar's fleet has won, according to an official statement issued by the admiralty today.

A German cruiser was badly damaged by the fire of the Russian gunners and was run ashore to escape sinking, the official statement says. The battered warship lowered its flag before it was beached.

The battle took place off the island of Gothland.

London, July 3.—With more than thirty Russian and German warships taking part, a great naval battle is raging in the Baltic, according to reports received here today from Copenhagen.

The battle began off the Swedish coast on Friday morning with ten cruisers and twenty torpedo boats participating. The Russians opened the attack and some of the German ships were reported to have been badly damaged and forced to retire. In the meantime, however, other German cruisers arrived on the scene and the Russians were forced to retire under the heavier fire of their opponent's guns.

Further details have been received of the attack upon the German mine layer Albatross, which, upon being chased by four Russian cruisers, was beached upon Gothland Island, with 27 dead upon her decks. A Stockholm dispatch says that the Swedish ambassador at Petrograd has been ordered to make a protest gainst the alleged violation of Swedish neutrality in the attack upon the Albatross. Among the twenty-seven killed upon the Albatross were Captain Lowenherd and the ship's doctor. Thirty-three others were badly wounded. The 165 unwounded seamen were interned by the Swedish government at Roma.

The Albatross was put to sea under the convoy of four cruisers of the Augsberg type. She carried 225 men and was under orders to mine Russians ports. While lying in a fog a flotilla of Russian cruisers came up and opened fire, 25 shells raking the mine layer and cutting away her masts.

Official intelligence from Berlin upon the naval operations is lacking, but the German admiralty denied the Russian report that a cruiser of the Magdeburg type had been sunk off Windau.

From the various dispatches received from Stockholm, Copenhagen and Petrograd it is indicated that there is great naval activity in more than one sphere of the Baltic and that considerable damage was inflicted by the guns on both sides. The German battleship Wittelsbach and another battleship of the Kiaser class are reported to have put into Kiel with many shell rents under the waterline.

Compensation Award Affirmed.

All concur except Judge Howard dissenting.

BOMB EXPLOSION IN UNITED STATES CAPITOL

Nobody Hurt and Damage Less Than $1,000 by Explosion of a Bomb Placed by Some Criminal Crank in the Senate Reception Room Behind the Telephone Booth.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 3.—"We are working on the case along all lines and will continue our investigations until the facts have been obtained. The explosion was due in my opinion to a bomb placed in the reception room under the old telephone switchboard by a crank to create a sensation."

This statement was made early today by Elliott Woods, superintendent of the capitol, after several hours of examination of the damage done to the reception room of the senate wing of the nation's law-making temple by an explosion shortly before midnight. The damage was confined to the reception room and will be less than a thousand dollars, according to an estimate today by Superintendent Woods. None of the employes was near at the time of the blast and no one was hurt.

A thorough examination was made by Mr. Woods of the foundations and other portions of the senate side of the building but he found no structural injury. Mr. Woods added:

"The damage is superficial and can, I believe, be repaired at a cost inside of a thousand dollars. What the motive of this crank was or what he hoped to accomplish by the explosion of the bomb in the room at such an hour of the night is only conjectural."

Captain Laughton, chief of the capitol police, agrees with Superintendent Woods that the explosion was caused by a bomb placed by a crank hours before it went off. The reception room was open to visitors during the day but was closed early in the evening. Officials stated that it would have been easy for some one to have entered the room with the crowds of visitors and placed the infernal machine behind the telephone booth.

Captain Laughton stated that six months ago a man in St. Louis wrote a letter to Vice President Marshall while congress was in session, threatening to blow up the capitol unless legislation favorable to organized labor was enacted. The captain said he made an investigation at that time, when the letter was turned over to him, with the assistance of post-office inspectors.

"We finally arrived at the conclusion that it was the work of a crank who had no connection with organized labor," he said.

Soon after the explosion the room was put under guard and no one permitted to enter and remove any possible clew. The room presented a desolate scene when daylight came.

The telephone switchboard, which has been out of use for some time, was wrecked completely as were three private telephone booths nearby. Walls and wainscoting were demolished and crushed mirrors and splintered wood was spread several inches deep over the floor.

The great mahogany doors of the U. S. district committee room, which opens into the reception room, was dashed to spinters. Carved doors leading into the office of the sergeant-at-arms of the senate met a similar fate and the windows of both rooms were shattered. Down a corridor at the main entrance to the senate wing near the battery of elevators and a long staircase, the big double doors were sprung and the large transom glass dashed to pieces on the capitol front.

F. G. Jones, of the night watch, on duty at the time of the explosion, said he was thrown violently from a big armchair into the middle of the corridor. He continued:

"I regained my feet bewildered, hardly knowing which way to turn. The men on duty came running from every direction. As soon as we could recover from the effects of the shock we started an investigation.

"We quickly saw that the explosion had been on the upper or main floor of the senate wing. There was some smoke coming from the direction of the senate chamber through the reception room. When we had reached the reception room where the explosion took place it was filled with a black blinding smoke with the smell of powder, clearly indicating that the explosion was due to that cause.

"After the smoke had cleared away we entered the room and found the wreck of things in there as you have seen. A short time after we entered the room, Superintendent Elliott Woods, who had been in his office, making some experiments, came hurrying to the scene of the wreck with several members of his staff. Chief of Police Laughton was among the first men to get to the drecked room after the smoke had cleared."

BODY EXHUMED FOR INSURANCE EVIDENCE

Adam Thiel, who died on June 2 at his home, No. 206 Flatbsuh avenue, carried an accident insurance policy of $1,000. This insurance his widow has tried to collect from the insurance company, which refused to pay claiming that death was due to natural causes. As a result the body was exhumed on Friday from Montrepose cemetery where it had been buried by Undertaker Wachmeyer of the Strand who had charge of the funeral, and an autopsy was performed at the Wachmeyer morgue on Catherine street that afternoon. The autopsy was performed by Dr. Otto Schueltz of New York city, the physician who was called by District Attorney Cunningham to testify in the trial of Edwin Van Aken. The autopsy was attended by Coroner E. A. Kelly, Undertaker Wachmeyer, Recorder Andrew Lang, representing Judge Stephan, the attorney for Mrs. Thiel, Drs. E. E. Norwood and Raymond Sanderson for Mrs. Thiel, and a representative of the insurance company. The proceedings of the autopsy were reported by Harold A. Styles as stenographer and the result will not be known until Dr. Schueltz makes his report.

Mr. Thiel a short time before his death fell from a tree and was severely injured. The cause of death is given in the certificate in the board of health office at the city hall was organic disease of heart. The contributary cause was injuries to chest by an accident. The certificate was made out by Dr. E. E. Norwood who attended Mr. Thiel during his illness.

AUTOMOBILE HITS COLONIAL CAR

While returning from a trip around the aqueduct the car of the Rev. Howard E. Snyder skidded at the corner of Washington avenue and struck a trolley car, smashing the front of the automobile badly, and injuring Mrs. John G. Salzmann of Brewster street, one of the occupants of the automobile.

Mrs. Salzmann received a scalp wound over the eye, extending back along the head for about four inches and which required about fifteen stitches to close it. Besides this she sustained a strained wrist and injuries to the knee which are not considered serious. There were no bones broken.

The other occupants of the car, the Rev. Howard E. Snyder, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Mrs. Snyder, their three children and Mrs. Gregory of Andrews street, were uninjured. The scalp wound which Mrs. Salzmann received was due to the flying glass of the broken windshield.

The party was coming in from a trip around the aqueduct and had just reached the corner of Washington avenue and North Front street. Mr. Snyder did not see the car until just as he was making the turn. He thought at first to turn to the left of the car as it was coming from Wall street on North Front street, but as the distance between the car and the curb was too narrow he decided to turn to the right of the car. When he saw that he couldn't make it he applied his brakes but the car skidded on the wet brick pavement and the front of the automobile struck the side of the trolley car, which was in charge of Motorman Brown.

Besides smashing the windshield of the automobile, the impact smashed the front right wheel, the radiator and badly bent the fender.

Mrs. Salzmann was taken to the Kingston City Hospital in the ambulance but the rest of the party were able to proceed home unaided. The car was taken to Kennedy's garage later for repairs.

Will Visit California Exposition.

Arthur E. Fronefield, foreman of the news composing room of the Kingston Daily Express will leave next Tuesday on a three weeks' trip via New York Central lines for California where he will visit the world's fair Panama Exposition at San Francisco and the Panama-California Exposition at San Diego. The itinerary across the American continent will include stop-overs at Chicago, Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, Pasadena, Grand Canyon, Royal Gorge, St. Louis, Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, Pa., and other places of interest. The route traversed by Mr. Fronefield will be over 7,000 miles. On the same train going west will be a large party of Christian Endeavor delegates, en-route for Chicago, where the fifth world's and twenty-seventh international Christian Endeavor convention wil be held from July 7 to 12.

A Good Place to Go.

On the evening of July 5, a dance and chicken supper will be given at the Mountain View Hotel, Bushnellville, N. Y. A special feature will be a prize waltz. Music for the occasion will be furnished by Muller's orchestra of Kingston. During the evening there will be a fine display of fireworks. As this hotel is situated along one of the finest auto routes in the state and is only 30 miles from Kingston, it makes a fine trip. All attending the events in adjoining towns during the morning and afternoon will find there is no better place to spend the evening. A great many Kingstonians have declared their intention of attending, and no doubt a crowd surpassing all others so far this season will be present. Commencing Wednesday evening, July 14, and continuing the entire season a dance will be given at this famous mountain resort each Wednesday evening, for which Muller's orchestra will furnish music. These dances under the capable management of J. P. Lyons of Kingston have gained great popularity and are attended by a large crowd weekly. To attend one is to get the habit, so all looking for a good time come.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

Waist 1361. Skirt 1345—A Neat and Becoming Summer Dress.

Striped gray and white taffeta was used for this style, with gray crepe de chine for yoke and sleeve portions. The skirt may be made with the popular "apron" tunic, if desired. For plaid, checked or plain materials this style is excellent. It is good for pique, linen, gingham, batiste, or lawn. The skirt may be of cloth or linen, and the waist of organdie, crepe, silk or batiste. The waist fronts are shaped over the inserted vest, which is cut to form yoke and sleeve portions. The sleeve is stylish in wrist or short length. The skirt is circular. The waist pattern 1361 is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches measure. The skirt pattern 1345 is cut in 6 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches waist measure. It requires 7¼ yards of 36 inch material, with 1½ yards for the tunic, for a medium size.

This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents FOR EACH pattern in silver or stamps by The Freeman Pattern Department. Be sure to state size wanted.

MORE LIGHT TO SHINE ON PAVED STREETS

The common council on Friday evening adopted the report of its street lighting committee recommending that clear glass globes be substituted for the present frosted globes on the arc lights on the paved streets. The street superintendent was instructed to proceed with the work of building sewers on Pine street and Hemlock avenue and arrangements were made to pay for the work. The city fathers also transacted considerable routine business. All of the members were present with the exception of President Connelly and Aldermen Schick and Jenks. Alderman Martin presided at the meeting.

A petition from the property owners on Abbey street asking that a sanitary sewer be constructed on that street was read. Alderman McKittrick for Alderman Schick offered a resolution that the petition be granted and that the city engineer prepare an ordinance, which was carried.

The city engineer's requisition for supplies was referred to the supply committee.

The secretary of the local fireman's committee having in charge the recent convention wrote a letter of thanks to the mayor and common council for the assistance rendered in in making the convention a success. Filed.

The street department payroll from June 13 to June 26, amounting to $3,572, and the city engineer's payroll amounting to $59 was audited and warrants ordered drawn. The same action was taken with bills and claims against the city which had been audited by the auditing committee.

Richard Burke of No. 17 Jansen avenue presented a claim against the city to recover $500 for personal injuries he had received on May 7, in front of the residence of William I. Hutton on Clifton avenue. Burke claimed that his injuries were due to the negligence of the water board and its officials. He was working for the water department that day and claimed that the trench in which pipe was being laid had not been properly shored up and caved in with him and he sustained two fractured ribs and other injuries. The claim was referred to the board of water commissioners.

The report of the committee on street lighting was received and read. The committee and the mayor had met with the Kingston Gas & Electric Company in regard to the substitution of clear globes for the present frosted globes on the arc lights on the paved streets and the electric company were willing to make the substitution. The committee recommended that the change be made. The electric company wrote that it would be able to substitute fifty globes within the next ten days and would substitute others as rapidly as possible. Alderman Schilp offered a resolution that such substitution be done without expense to the city. Carried.

The street suprintendent reported purchases for the past month amounting to $586.32. Filed.

City Engineer Codwise sent in a communication giving his estimate of the cost of the construction of a sewer on Pine street. The estimate was $1,230. Alderman Myers for Alderman Martin moved that the estimate be approved and that the mayor and city clerk issue a promissory note for $922 or 75 per cent of the estimated cost and that the city treasurer sell the note at not less than par. The note to bear interest at the rate of 4½ per cent per annum, and when the sewer was finally completed that another note be issued to cover the deficiency. Carried.

The city engineer also submitted his estimate of the cost of constructing the sewer on Hemlock avenue amounting to $871. Alderman McKittrick for Alderman Schick offered a similar resolution to the previous one except that the amount of the note was to be $635. Carried.

Mayor Canfield sent in the summons and complaint served on the corporation counsel by Estelle Clark who has brought suit against the city to recover $2,000 damages for personal injuries received in a fall on Jansen avenue. The corporation counsel was given instructions to defend the action.

The following resolutions were offered:

Alderman Mitchell, that Union street be topdressed and rolled. Referred to street superintendent with power.

Alderman Myers that city engineer establish grade on South Prospect street between Greenkill and Barmann avenues. Carried.

Alderman Moyle that street superintendent fill holes on Hoffman street. Street superintendent with power.

Alderman Moyle, that street superintendent fill holes on Staples street. Street superintendent with power.

Alderman Schilp, that the chief of police notify Messrs. Cooper and Tongue and the Waters estate to lay flagging on Highland avenue within thirty days or that the work will be done at their expense by the street department. Carried.

Alderman Kirchner, that Spring street between Wurts street and Broadway be repaired. Street superintendent with power.

Alderman Kirchner, that Post street be repaired. Street superintendent with power.

Alderman Mitchell, that catch basin on the corner of Union and Ann streets be cleaned. Street superintendent with power.

Alderman Myers that city engineer be directed to prepare an ordinance for the construction of a sewer on Sterling street. Carried.

Alderman McCullough, that the Eighth ward had been oiled in spots and that street superintendent give the ward some more oily spots. Street superintendent with power.

Alderman Myers, for President Connelly, that Clinton avenue be oiled from Cedar street to Greenkill avenue. Street superintendent with power.

Alderman McKittrick that the officials of the West Shore railroad be notified by the chief of police to lay new planking on the railroad crossings at Flatbush and Smith avenues. Carried.

Alderman McCullough, that McEntee street be graded from Pierpont to Hone streets according to city ordinance. Referred to city engineer to report at next meeting.

Alderman Myers, for President Connelly, that Linderman avenue from Washington avenue to Delta Place and one hundred feet on Delta Place be oiled as soon as possible. Street superintendent with power.

Alderman Myers, for President Connelly, that Pine street oiling be extended one hundred feet farther south. Street superintendent with power.

The meeting then adjourned.

FIRECRACKERS MUST BE VERY SMALL

The length of firecrackers which may be handled in this city is three inches instead of five inches, as stated several days ago in The Freeman.

The size of firecrackers is regulated for the past five years by a city ordinance which also enumerates the kinds of firecrackers and fireworks which are prohibited within the city limits.

Section 1 of the ordinance prohibits any person, firm or corporation from selling or having possesion of torpedoes containing dynamite, any torpedo canes or ammunition for tropedo canes, or any dynamite firecrackers so-called, or any firecracker containing an explosive agent or explosive substance other than gunpowder compounded of saltpetre, sulphur and charcoal.

Section 2 prohibits the sale or possession of firecrackers of any kind or description of a size more than three inches in length or one-half inch in diameter.

Section 3 prohibits the sale or possession of any squib, rocket, fire balloon or other combustible fireworks, or any article for the making of a pyrotechnic display, except such as are otherwise expressly permitted, and except for the specific purposes of railroad signalling or public pyrotechnic displays which may be free or for which an admission is charged.

The following are expressly exempted from the prohibition of the ordinance by section 4: Roman candles, star mines and wares of like character, pin wheels in their different forms and sizes, sparklers in their different sizes, and colored fire in either loose or stick form.

Violations of the provisions of the ordinance is punishable upon conviction by a fine of not less than $50 or more than $100 for each offense, or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

On account of the danger of fires resulting from the use of fireworks and firecrackers, special attention has been called to the provisions of the ordinance by Chief Chipp, of the fire department.

SAXON ROADSTER $395

1916 MODELS NOW HERE

Continental motors used on both Roadsters and Touring Models. The following are a few reasons why your Roadster should be a Saxon.

TWELVE SAXON VIRTUES

1—Simplicity
One can learn to drive a Saxon in a few minutes. A man from down in Sabina, Ohio, purchased a Saxon one morning last summer. The first day he drove 65 miles without assistance. He had never driven any car previously. Thousands of other owners have had similar experiences.

2—Good Material
The materials in our cars are thoroughly high grade. Many of the mechanical parts are made of the same grade of material as is used in cars selling at $2,000.

3—Modern Design
The Saxon is right up to the minute in appearance. The body lines carry out the ideals established by high grade automobile manufacturers, both in this and other countries.

4—Light Weight
The Saxon is light in weight compared to other automobiles. This means fine performance on hills, least wear on tires, low operating cost.

5—Low Gas Consumption
Wonderful economy has been a great source of satisfaction to thousands who have already bought Saxon cars. Owners of our two-passenger car are averaging 28 to 36 miles per gallon of gasoline.

6—Low Oil Consumption
Owners obtain 75 to 100 miles on a pint of oil.

7—Reliability
Saxons endure the hardest usage and keep running as well as high priced cars.

8—Quiet Motor
There is no noticeable vibration in the Saxon cars. They operate smoothly whether running fast, or throttled down to a few miles per hour.

9—Ample Power
The Saxon makes all ordinary hills on high, and pulls through the deepest sand and mud.

10—Keeps Cool
Saxon motors keep cool under all conditions of roads and weather.

11—Tread
Furnished in tread adapted to any road. Standard or 60 inch tread optional.

12—Price
Saxon cars are in a price class by themselves. No automobile ever manufactured gives Saxon value at Saxon prices.

"A DECENT RESPECT."

A comparison of conditions in Europe and America at the present time directs attention to two phrases in the Declaration of Independence the signing of which one hundred and thirty-nine years ago marked the beginning of a new era in the world's history.

"* * * a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation," is the concluding phrase of the first paragraph of the American Declaration.

The second paragragh of the Declaration contains this pertinent sentence: "But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw of such government, and to provide new guards for their future security."

It would be hard to determine how greatly American character has been influenced by a policy based on "a decent respect to the opinions of mankind." Admittedly, that policy has been national, and the characteristic must have existed strongly before the Declaration was adopted or its impress would not be found in that document. The entire policy of the American colonies is contained in the first two paragraphs of the Declaration of Independence; the balance of the document is an indictment of the British King.

The principle of "a decent respect to the opinions of mankind" is interwoven in our daily life, and its existence is evidenced by the action of each of the warring European nations in issuing its official "Papers" containing at least a part of the diplomatic correspondence which preceded hostilities. The American policy, national and individual, has been to warn an adversary of the danger of the impending blow. Europe, on the contrary, strikes first and explains after.

The "long train of abuses and usurpations" which the American colonies sought to throw off have been duplicated many times since then by European countries on their subjects, and only in small part have the people been relieved of the yoke designed "to reduce them under absolute despotism."

The war may last for many years or it may end unexpectedly, and it is not too early to study the development of Europe's future civil history. From the people themselves no great scheme of government can be expected to be evolved. Such changes will come from the political leaders, some of whom will be idealists, some actuated by vanity or revenge, some yearning for power or pelf, some seeking to perpetuate themselves and their dynasty. In all events, human liberty and freedom will make some progress

To what land will foreign eyes turn for inspiration if not to the United States of America? No other form of government can so profitably be studied, whether it shall be desired to give the people full freedom or merely the face of freedom behind which still shall lurk the brain of despotism, for in no other country are men so free theoretically as in America. The foibles of human nature which deviate the course of theoretical freedom into an unstable semi-free state in which men are bound by the shackles of civic corruption or held in the thraldom of official red tape which defeats the ends for which it was intended, also can be found in America, and the statesman viewing American conditions as they easily can be found to exist in any state may well pause to consider the means by which his people shall have freedom in theory but a form of bondage in actual practice.

The Declaration of Independence was drafted to meet a crisis; it did not quibble or the framers did not seek to make nice distinctions; it was made so broad and comprehensive that it should be understood by everyone. The principles enunciated cannot die; they are alive today just as truly as they were prior to July 4, 1776, and conditions exist now as they did then to which such principles can be applied most beneficially. To live up to those principles is an indication of the highest conception of American citizenship, and especially at a time like the present should they be put promptly into full operation—if for no other reason than "a decent respect to the opinions of mankind."

A FEW THOUGHTS.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

This year, above all others, one is glad that our great day of Independence is not to be celebrated by a prodigious combination of explosives, accidents and noise, with just a little remembrance thrown in.

And it is not all because one is thinking of the big toll taken in the past from the boys and girls, who have always constituted the real heart of the day—toy soldiers for a minute and all of a sudden transformed into sorry little cripples or possibly worse; but that the very smell of powder this year has a tang suggestively real. For the youngest of the fighters whose life-blood is crimsoning the soil over the sea are not a lot older than our own glad laddies who help carry along the traditions of the day. And it is saddening just to think how they fall in tragic numbers and how they will go on falling to the end of all time unless something happens to put a blight upon war that it set in motion so freely without adequate cause, if ever there is adequate cause.

And does it occur to you that half a dozen years ago or so when the idea of a "safe and sane Fourth" was first feebly suggested by a handful of dreamers there was a chorus of voices loudly proclaiming it never could come.

We were told, with all the assurance of conviction, that the noisy manner of protesting our gratitude to our sturdy forefathers had become a strong feature of American life and that nothing could make the carnival of destruction pass away.

But the American people, once thoroughly aroused to the fact that it was an atrocious thing to place the fire-cracker and the whole powder family into baby hands to work what havoc they might, are fast letting the old cannon and cracker spirit die out and accepting the new order of things. And we are wondering all the while how we ever grew to think that explosives were soul-stirring.

And now—

Though the pitying world is almost stunned by the events of this terrible year, in which powder and bayonet have been given so mighty a place, there are the multitudes who say that turbulent human nature itself stands in the way of wiping out war as a means of settling international disputes and that there is no other way out. And to the handful of zealous, peace-loving souls, growing stronger and more determined all the while, there is the same old cry: It cannot be done.

But one notes many prophetic signs.

It is many a year since the Baroness Bertha von Suttner startled the world with her "Lay Down Your Arms," which told the story of war as women ought to see it; and while it may seem that not very much has been done from that time to the day when the Women's Peace Party of America sprang into being and later, last April, when the World Congress of Representative Women met at the Hague under the patronage of Queen Wilhelmina, the last count is not in.

Some folk are inclined to smile a bit—some smile very easily, you know—when they speak of that meeting in Holland, just as if they thought that the women who inspired it expected it, by some kindly magic, to put an immediate quietus upon war. But they were not visionary enough, vain enough—feminine enough, if you like—to hope that the war-spirit so long in the growing would pass until the world became fully awake.

And therein lay the one great purpose of that getting together of representative women from different corners of the world—to set women a-thinking. And, incidentally, to pass their thoughts along.

It is said that in Germany today—Germany in order to win, has sacrificed much which her national honor should have made her hold fast—the streets are so be-sprinkled with black-robed women who have lost their nearest and dearest that almost every other woman one meets wears the significant symbol of loss without knowing why. For there is no why for the mighty slaughter.

And the meeting at the Hague eloquently sent out its message to them.

When public opinion is deeply stirred—and women play a large part in the making of that—old institutions gradually give 'way, whether it is a manner of celebration grown too boisterous, too dangerous, or a method of settling international quarrels. And public opinion is gradually being stirred to a realization of the hard fact that the whole world always has made mighty sacrifices to the unholiest of wars, which never should have come.

But it is not women alone who are asking, Why?

One was very much impressed with an article which appeared in the Atlantic Monthly last December, from the pen of G. Lowes Dickinson. It was titled "The War and the Way Out," and was a message to "the ordinary men and women," not for this particular war, for this he declared must be fought to a finish, but for all great disputes in the future. He brought out very plainly the great fact that there is a wide gulf between the few men who have the power to determine the policy and the fighting fate of a government and the millions of men and women living under its rule who must sacrifice all that they hold dear, not through Fate, but through human folly. And he says that war never will cease until "the plain men and women, workers with their hands and workers with their brain," get together and say to the men who lead them to catastrophe, "No more! And never again!"

It is a message that the "real people who have to bear the brunt of war" ought to read. And in time, one believes that the questions he asks of the "real people," and similar questions asked by men like Guglielmo Ferrero and others of their kind will sink deep in the minds of the ordinary men and women ofthe world.

Yes, we are grateful, very, to the men who stand back of the day of our independence—but the time has came to find another way out.

Newsy Notes From Moran School.

Miss Ethel Madden, a student in the department of advanced stenography, has secured a desirable permanent position as stenographer with the National Ulster County Bank, this city.

Notification has been received that George Halverson has been successful in his final examination for entrance to Pratt Institute, the result of a special course in college preparatory subjects. This is sufficient proof of the thoroughness and practicability of the Moran Business School in its various departments of learning.

A representative of the A. N. Palmer Company visited the school recently and gave the students some valuable pointers in the Palmer Method of Writing—the method adopted by public and private schools throughout the country on account of its many practicable advantages over all other systems.

Due recognition has already been manifested in the efficacy of the Moran School as "A School of Higher Business Education," in that its enrollment includes college and civil service aspirants, as well as a goodly number of teachers, who appreciate the importance of a thorough business course to complete their education.

Number of students enrolled to date, 60.

The summer session for 1915 is a record maker. The attendance is large and is increasing rapidly, even beyond expectations, and the outlook for September is indeed bright; an exceedingly large enrollment is anticipated.

LITTLE LAUGHS

"Is she a woman of affairs?" "Yes; everybody's. She's the neighborhood gossip."—Judge.

"The prisoner was sunk in dejection." "What sank him?" "The fact they couldn't bail him out."—Baltimore American.

"The women made a regular sortie on the bargains heaped up." "Yes; what you might call a counter-attack."—Baltimore American.

"Did Maud get that electric runabout she asked her husband for?" "No; she had to compromise on an electric flat-iron."—Boston Transcript.

Why Fans Go Crazy—Mrs. Dents (at the ball game, excitedly)—"Isn't our pitcher perfectly grand, Tyrus! He hits the club nearly every throw!"—Puck.

"When did your boy Josh pass his examinations?" "I dunno exactly," replied Farmer Corntossel; "but I reckon it must have been when nobody was lookin'."—Washington Star.

"Look here!" cried the angry farmer. "What do you mean by fishing in this creek? "Don't you see the property's posted?" "Yes," replied the discouraged angler. "If I had been posted myself I never would have tried to catch any fish here."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

"You are careful to set an example for your son?" "I used to try to set him an example," replied the serious man. "But now I study him attentively to ascertain what kind of clothes I ought to wear, and the style of conversation that is considered smart."—Washington Star.

The Bishop's Opinion.

Of a certain bishop the following anecdote is told: While presiding over a conference, a speaker began a tirade against universities and education, expressing thankfulness that he had never been corrupted by contact with a college.

After proceeding for a few minutes the bishop interrupted with the question:

"Do I understand that Mr. X— is thankful for his ignorance?"

"Well, yes," was the answer; "you can put it that way if you like."

"Well, all I have to say," said the prelate, in sweet and musical tones, "all I have to say is that Mr. X— has much to be thankful for."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Military Argument.

Pierre Rodjestvensky, the Russian consul at San Francisco, said in a recent military argument: "These assailants of the Russian campaign are ignorant. Their arguments show a military ignorance as great as the sea ignorance that was shown by the young tripper on his visit to Coney Island. As the tripper and his girl stood on the Coney Island beach the young woman said: 'Al, is the tide going or coming in?' 'Coming in, of course you dunce,' Al answered. 'Can't you see which way the waves are turnin' over?'"—Los Angeles Times.

Martial Wit.

Lady Roberts has told a good story concerning a smart answer she once heard a soldier made to a remark of hers in India. She was visiting some military hospitals out there and was so delighted on what she saw that she exclaimed:

"I think the nurses deserve a medal for this campaign as much as anyone, and I hope they will get one."

"I don't know about a medal," said a witty officer who was in attendance; "but they are sure to get plenty of clasps!"—London Answers.

A Hearty Response.

Representative Cyrus Cline of Indiana is commonly known among his fellow members of congress as "Parson" Cline on account of his ministerial frock coat and white tie—his usual costume.

Cline lives at a hostelry which is also the headquarters of the Indiana delegation and much frequented by people from that state. As Indiana is a Belgium in being the political battleground of the country, so the hotel is the scene of many skirmishes and also the graveyard of many hopes. In the lobby are frequently found at one time many of the coming men of the state.

One evening last winter Cline entered the lobby after dinner and called out in a loud voice: "Governor, come over here. I want to talk a little politics with you."

Immediately six Indiana members rose and started for Cline, among them Adair, Barnhart, Moss and Dixon. This was decidedly embarrassing to the "parson," who was unable to show any preference, so the conference numbered six prospective governors instead of one.—Washington Star.

Again the Tempter.

The sailor had been showing the lady visitor over the ship. In thanking him she said:

"I see that by the rules of your ship tips are forbidden."

"Lor' bless yer 'eart, mo'am," replied Jack, "so were the apples in the Garden of Eden."—Tit-Bits.

WATER BOARD ACTS MYSTERIOUS

Holds Secret Session and No Statement as to Matter Discussed Can be Obtained—"Only a Little Matter Among Ourselves."

The regular monthly meeting of the water board was held at the city hall on Friday afternoon. There was an air of mystery about the meeting, part of which was held behind closed doors and concerning the matter which was talked over in executive session nothing could be gleaned.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Bills for the month of June were read and referred to the auditing committee with power to issue warrants in payment.

President Hauck then appointed the following committees:

Finance—John Hauck, W. R. Harrison.

Purchasing—W. R. Harrison, Palmer A. Canfield.

Auditing—Palmer A. Canfield, John Hauck.

Extensions and Improvements—William F. Roach, Dr. George F. Chandler.

It was decided that the entire board and a mason visit the house of Albert Delaney on East Chester street to examine the house and determine how much damage had been done to it by blasting for the pipe line through East Chester street. Mr. Delaney had reported the matter to the board and Dr. Chandler who examined the property felt as though the board should examine it together with an expert. President Hauck will call the board together when they decide to visit the house.

The matter of laying a new pipe line on Hurley avenue as requested by the fire board was referrred to the committee on extensions and improvements.

A petition was received from two residents on Mead street asking that water pipe be placed on Mead street from East Chester street and with it came an agreement to take water. The superintendent said it was a paying proposition but the communication was received and placed on file and the matter referred to the committee on extensions and improvements.

A request was made by Superintendent Harrison on behalf of John V. Herrick, who reside on Lucas avenue, just the other side of the city limit, that the board allow him to take water from the city supply for which he would pay regular rates and do the piping to connect with the city supply. Commissioner Roach thought that this was out of the question because the board had no right to go beyond the city limits but Superintendent Harrison thought that as it had been done by other boards it could be done in this case. The matter was referred to the committee on extensions and improvements.

Superintendent Harrison also said that Mr. Burgevin of V. Burgevin's Sons was building a new hot house which was one third the size of his other house and that he would use water here as in the other house but that there would also be another fixture. He said Mr. Burgevin is paying $100 a year now and offered to pay $150 for a new rate. A flat rate of $150 a year for one year was agreed to by the board.

DeLancey N. Mathews also requested that the meter be taken from his house. It was found that the meter price usually tallied with the usual water rate. On motion of Mr. Canfield it was decide to take the meter out.

A letter from Mrs. Mary H. Preston was read asking that the board place a water meter in the Preston building on Fair street. The letter was received at the last meeting but was laid upon the table. On motion of Mr. Canfield the matter was referred to the next meeting.

It was at this point that Superintendent Harrison asked the Freeman representative to leave the room When seen after the meeting and asked as to the nature of the business transacted behind closed doors Mr. Harrison said it was "only a little matter among themselves up at the lake." The "little matter" required three quarters of an hour for discussion.

APPRECIATION OF "NURSES' KITS"

Mrs. Elva H. Bogart of Washington avenue, who with her mother, Mrs. Smith, was so instrumental in furthering the making of the "Nurses' Kits," to be used in the European war zone, on request of Mrs. Joseph McQuide of Troy. (former district chairman of this district of the State Federation of Women's Clubs) has just received the following letter and report from Mrs. McQuide:

Surgical Dressings Committee
Troy Emma Willard Association
Section, Troy, N. Y.
June 29th, 1915.

My Dear Mrs. Bogart:

We have closed our headquarters for the summer, although there are still a few cities throughout the state working on the surgical dressings; these we will take care of by correspondence.

The enclosed statement, I know, will be interesting to you, as you have been so closely identified with making our success what it is. Not knowing the names of those who worked with you, we are unable to send this statement directly to them. May we ask you to see that they are informed as to the results of their labors.

Again hanking you for your hearty co-operation which gave us courage to go on with the work,

I am
Most cordially yours,
MRS. JOSEPH M'QUIDE.
(Chairman).

It will be remembered that 100,000 surgical dressings were asked for from the state, and the response has certainly been generous, as will be seen by the following statement:

The executive committee of the Troy Emma Willard Association Section submits the following report:

Our headquarters which were opened January 19, for the purpose of supplying surgical dressings to the wounded soldiers in Europe, were closed June 29, after a most successful five months. Three shipments have been made from our headquarters. On March 31, 3,055; May 17, 11,301; June 25, 15,606, making 29,962 finished surgical dressings sent from Troy and vicinity, while 31,344 dressings have been shipped directly to national headquarters in New York city from the 35 cities working under our section, making a grand total of 61,306.

Thirty-two of the thirty-five cities are in New York state, while members of our association living in Toronto, Ohio; Williamantic, Conn., and Washington, D. C., have generously aided in the work. One of our "sample kits" has even been carried by an enthusiastic worker to Brazil.

On May 14, at the request of his Troy friends, we shipped to Dr. Ethan Butler, an American surgeon at a hospital in Belgrade, Servia, 22,444 sterilized surgical dressings.

If you could read some of the letters sent in acknowledgement of these much needed articles, you would feel you had been greatly privileged in having part in this wonderful relief work for suffering humanity. We are living in such close touch with this epoch-making war that we do not rightly sense the important, far-reaching effect of the attitude we take in this matter. When its history is written, the part played by us as American women, will be a source of pride to the future generation.

The justification of our work is found in the verse we have placed upon our window cards—"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the lease of those, my brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. JOSEPH M'QUIDE,
Chairman.

MRS. L. B. SCHNEIDER,

Kingston W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The last meeting of the W. C. T. U. held Thursday was a success, thanks to Mrs. Mould, the corresponding secretary, over fifty being present. Mrs. Mott of the Salvation Army sang two solos very sweetly. Mrs. Keefe and Mrs. Kraft repeated their duet by request and Miss Merritt gave two fine selections and Miss Hogeboom a piano solo. Mrs. Matman from New York, a visitor of note, who is spending the summer at the Huntington, was personally acquainted with Frances Willard and gave some very interesting experiences with Miss Willard and what a wonderful character she was. It was a great pleasure to hear her. A social hour was then enjoyed refreshments being served by the social committee. The next meeting of the union will be the first Thursday in September.

ORDER GRANTED IN ELMORE WILL CASE

An order granted by Judge Chester has been filed in the county clerk's office in the contest over the will of Mary E. Elmore, the wealthy Highland spinster whose will is being contested by one of her nephews. The case was on the calendar of the May term of the supreme court, a trial by jury having been demanded by James H. Elmore, the contestant, when the will was offered for probate to Surrogate Gis, who immediately transferred it to the supreme court under the new surrogate's act. When the court opened Judge Clearwater, who represents the executors, applied to Judge Chester for an order requiring the contestant to serve a verified bill of particulars upon the executors, setting out—

1st. What money or moneys, property or properties the contestant alleges were procured from the decedent by any of the beneficiaries under the decedent's will, and the time or times, place or places when and where such moneys or property were procured as alleged by the contestant.

2nd. What delusions the testatrix had or abored under, what drugs and narcotics as alleged in the contestant's objections were used by her, and what acts of the beneficiaries are relied upon by the contestant as encouraging the use of drugs and narcotics by the testatrix, together with the times and places, when and where such alleged acts were committed.

3rd. The names of the persons whom the contestant claims exercised undue influence upon the testatrix.

As previously stated, this case is the first case which has arisen in this county under the new surrogate's act, permitting contested wills to be tried before a jury in the supreme court, and one of the first in the state, and its progress is watched with much interest by judges and lawyers. Hon. Joseph M. Fowler of this city and Reuben E. Haskell of New York are counsel for the contestant, James H. Elmore, who is a resident of the city of Brooklyn.

Judge Chester directs the contestan to furnish this information to the executors within twenty days.

CHICKENS DUCKS and TURKEYS

CARING FOR FARM POULTRY

Abundant Supply of Pure Water, Grit and Charcoal Should Be Provided for Flock in Summer.

(By R. G. WEATHERSTONE.)

During summer we should provide an abundance of pure water, grit and charcoal for the farm flock. Keep the houses cool at night and well ventilated at all times when the fowls are kept inside. Wheat, oats and a mash feed once a day makes an excellent supply of feed during the warm weather.

Feed no musty and fermented feed. A sour mash is highly injurious. Sour milk may be used to moisten the mash but no more should be mixed at one time than the fowls will clean up at one feeding.

Allow no feeds to accumulate in the feed troughs. Feather eating among hens is usually prevalent during summer. In some cases the feathers are almost stripped from the neck of the birds and the flesh is lacerated with the beaks and burned by the sun.

This habit is invariably caused by lack of proper substance in the feed. Prevention is better than cure, and perfect health and vitality among the flock should do this.

Old hens intended for the market should always be sold early before they begin to moult or else you will be compelled to feed them three or four months before they have completed a new set of plumage and look fit to be sold as market poultry.

I have found nothing better than to feed them sparingly with nitrogenous feeds until about the first week in September and follow this with an abundance of wholesome stimulating feeds to encourage the growth of plumage.

A little flaxseed meal or linseed oil meal added to their feed helps the growth of feathers and gives bright, healthful and glossy appearance to their plumage. The care of the birds during summer has a wonderful influence upon the number of eggs the older hens will lay during the winter.

WATCH THE LITTLE TURKEYS

Brooder Poults Are Almost Sure to Wander Off by Themselves—Chicks Teach Them to Eat.

Watch the little turkeys at first, for often they will follow off any moving thing. If brooder turkeys, when first let out they are nearly sure to go wandering off after a pig, rooster or even a man, and will not come back unless brought back.

Often their own mother fails to teach them how to eat at first. For brooder poults put in some little chicks with them. These soon show them how to pick up food.

If you would have your poults tame, every time you go near them toss them little feeds of bread, grain, anything they like. It does not take them long to get to know you and come hunting you from far across the fields, when you let them get sight of you or hear your voice.

CHICKS WILL EAT ANYTHING

Fowls of All Ages Will Eat Stuff That Not Only Causes Different Diseases, but Kills.

Chicks will eat anything they can get at, and if you do not look out, the small chicks, like the large ones, will eat of stuff that not only diseases, but kills.

Little chicks are even worse than the old, for often they will fill up their crops with sand and sawdust, which will kill, and paint picked off the brooders, which kills more surely.

Too much lime sprinkled about the premises has burned the crop out of many a young chick.

Sand and lime are all right, but don't bed in the first or sprinkle the last thick enough to draw a chick's special attention.

Green Food for Ducks.

After ducks are two weeks old, they should be supplied with green food of some kind daily.

Fate.

For nine-tenths of the world's inhabitants, the line of least resistance. For the remaining one-tenth, industry, perseverance, courage, hope, honesty and all the copybook virtues. If you don't believe it, try it.—Judge.

FOURTH OF JULY LAYOUT.

Brains Not Everything.

"People have got brains on the brain," declared Spurgeon. "If you say that you don't like a person, someone is sure to remark, 'Oh, but he is so clever!' just as if that were a reason in itself for liking a person. Cleverness is not everything. Sometimes it is the very thing that fills one with distrust of a person—he or she may be only made dangerous by it. Make the most of your brains, but don't think they are the only things worth cultivating."

SMALLEST DONKEY IN THE WORLD BROUGHT HERE BY SPORTSMAN WHO NEVER KILLED AN ANIMAL.

Minnehaha, Smallest Donkey in the World.

New York, July 3.—The Bronx Park Zoo is the proud possessor of the smallest donkey in the world, brought here by Hugh H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, of Cob Tree Manor, Maidstone, England, who also delivered to the Zoo, a lioness, a reed buck, a pink eyed guinaco, two dyk dyks, some small mammals, two giant birds of paradise and a collection of birds of prey.

The little donkey is but twenty-nine inches high and is now with foal. She and her offspring promise to be the chief attraction at the Zoo. She has been given the name of Minnehaha.

Mr. Tyrwhitt-Drake has never shot an animal in his life, although he explored all the jungles of India, Africa and South America. He has captured hundreds of wild animals and owns the largest private menagerie in the world.

The Spanish language is not a difficult one to learn. On the other hand, it is one of the easiest in the world. By steady application, combining conversation with book study, one should be able to get a pretty fair command of the Spanish in a year's time.

MORGAN'S ASSAILANT HAS GERMAN ACCENT

Asserted that Morgan was Responsible for the Continuance of the European War—Had Dynamite and Nitro-Glycerine in a Satchel.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Glen Cove, N. Y., July 3.—Declaring that J. Pierpont Morgan, the famous banker, is responsible for the continuation of the European war, a man, who is believed to be insane, shot the financier at his summer home here today. Two wounds were inflicted, both of which were slight, one in the side and the other in the leg. The prisoner is believed to be of German nationality, although he claims to be be an American citizen. He speaks with a marked German accent.

The prisoner was brought here and locked up pending his removal to the county jail at Mineola. After his arrest he raved about the war, declaring over and over that Mr. Morgan could end the war if he wanted to.

After his arrest the police declared that the would-be assassin had brought, besides two revolvers, a satchel containing six sticks of dynamite, a bottle of nitro-glycerine and several fulminating caps.

The man arrived upon the 8:30 train upon the Long Island R. R., and approached M. F. Ford, who operates a taxicab service in Glen Cove.

"I want to be driven to the residence of J. P. Morgan," said the man. "I want you to take me there quickly for I am in a big hurry."

The man was well dressed and Ford's suspicions were in no wise aroused by the request.

"The fare" got into the taxicab and began to read a newspaper. He showed no symptoms of nervousness and was entirely self-possessed. The distance to "East Island," the Morgan country place, was quickly covered.

When the Morgan place was reached the stranger got out of the cab and as he had his fare, he remarked to the taxicab driver:

"This is the man who is responsible for the European war," at the same time pointing toward the palatial mansion nestling among the trees.

The chauffeur, believing from the man's appearance that he was a business acquaintance of the banker, thought nothing of the remark and made some commonplace reply as he drove away.

Passing up the driveway the visitor rang the bell, which was answered at once by a butler.

"I wish to see Mr. Morgan at once," said the man.

As an afterthought he added, as though to insure his seeing the banker:

"It is very important."

The servant disappeared, but after a moment returned, saying:

"Mr. Morgan regrets to say that he cannot see you because he is very busy."

This aroused the stranger's anger. "Won't he see me?" he snarled, drawing a .38 calibre revolver from his pocket. "He will see me. He is responsible for this war and it has got to stop. He is the man who can stop it."

The butler upon seeing the weapon gave a shout of fear and Mr. Morgan, who was reading in his library at the time, hurried out to ascertain the cause of the commotion.

As Mr. Morgan appeared the butler mastering his fear grappled with the assailant, who was shouting:

"I cannot help it; I must see Morgan. This war has got to stop. It has gone too far now. I've come here to serve my country."

In the scuffle the weapon was dropped but the would-be-assassin, breaking the other's grip, drew another pistol, a .32 calibre weapon.

"Help my country," he shouted at the financier, who had stopped short at the sight which greeted his eyes.

Before Mr. Morgan could say anything the man began to fire. One bullet struck Mr. Morgan in the leg, inflicting a flesh wound and the other hit him in the side. The financier retained his presence of mind and started forward for his assailant. The noise had aroused the household and servants were pouring in from all directions. Even the housemaids took part in overpowering the intruder.

The butler had picked up a heavy brass coal hod which he hurled at the stranger, striking him in the forehead and knocking him down. In the meantime Mr. Morgan not knowing how badly he was hurt, staggered into his library and collapsed in a chair.

While some of the servants were telephoning for Dr. William H. Zabriski and for the police, others were caring for the financier, and still others were trussing up the prostrate man who was now confidently believed to be an anarchist.

When Dr. Zabriski arrived he made a hasty examination and immediately reassured the family that Mr. Morgan's wounds were slight and that no fears need to be felt.

Constable Frank McCahill arrived and took charge of the prisoner. The stranger, his face and clothes covered with blood from the cut in his forehead, was in the hall of the Morgan home, shouting at the assembled servants who glared back at him. All were armed with such nondescript weapons as shovels, canes, gardening articles and, in short, anything that could be found.

"I was sent by God to do this" screamed the man.

"Nobody helped me. I am an American citizen. I am willing to pay with my life for what I have done."

It was evident the man thought he had killed Mr. Morgan.

"Morgan ought to stop this war. He is the only one who can do it. I want the world to know my position. My country will thank me for this noble deed."

When the prisoner learned that Mr. Morgan had been wounded only slightly he exclaimed with an oath:

"I failed but God willed it should be done."

The prisoner further showed his pro-German tendencies when he talked about the position of J. P. Morgan and Company as the fiscal agents and ammunition buyers of the allies in this country.

Immediately after the shooting the following telegram was sent to Mrs. J. P. Morgan, mother of the wounded man, at Highland Falls, N. Y.:

"John attacked by lunatic with pistol and slightly wounded. Is doing well."

The police made a thorough examination of the two suit-cases carried by the stranger. They found evidence, they declared upon which they will have no difficulty in having the man indicted upon the charge of attempting to murder Mr. Morgan. The satchels revealed numerous railroad tickets to all parts of the country, indicating he was prepared to use almost to any road to escape. There was an express slip upon which was written the name: "Schwartzheimer." That is believed to be the man's name. Numerous irrationally worded notes were also found. The express tag showed that a package had been sent from Ithaca, N. Y., to Dallas, Tex.

Shortly after his arrest the man was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Luyster on a charge of felonious assault and held without bail. Later he was removed to Mineola and placed in the Nassau county jail.

"Why did you do this?" asked Justice Luyster.

"Because I am a true American citizen" replied the prisoner.

"I am going to do all I can to end this war in Europe. The only way to do it is to kill those responsible for it."

After that the prisoner became silent and would say no more. He would not even answer questions.

Dr. Connelly who examined the prisoner, declared he was undoubtedly insane. The man is tall, thin and dark. His age is about 30. In a way he resembles a German Jew.

One of the bullets which struck Mr. Morgan entered an oil painting that was upon the wall behind him. The man's aim was bad and neither of the bullets came near a vital spot. The one which must have inflicted a serious, or perhaps fatal wound, was that which struck the left side.

If This is Your Birthday ?

JULY 3

There is a tendency in the nature of the person born today to worry and fret over trifles. An over-sensitive nature also causes suffering and limits opportunity.

The sign governing this birthdate is Cancer and the planet is the Moon, consequently we find rather a fickle, changeable disposition and one not readily understood.

The woman of this birthdate is exceedingly fond of jewelry and fine clothes and the men of this sign are fastidious in their apparel. There is a deep, keen love of home and good husbands and wives are found in this sign. The coming two weeks are under good planetary influences for the sale and exchange of real estate and homes.

He also was a member of the visiting staff of the Brooklyn Home for Consumptives, Bethesda Sanitarium and the Eastern District Dispensary.

The Cartridge Exploded.

Ray Kohler of South Pine street obtained an exploded cartridge somewhere on Friday and filled it with powder and dynamite such as is used in the canes that explode on the Fourth of July. Last evening he started to celebrate by pounding it with a rock. The thing exploded, badly injuring the end of one of his fingers and besides lacerating his cheek and forehead.

The Crank Kicked.

Charles H. Williams, the typewriter agent of this city, broke his right wrist while cranking his automobile on Friday afternoon. The fracture was reduced by Dr. Frank Keator and an X-ray picture taken by Dr. Harry Van Wagonen.

The Listener.

Years ago some one said that "a good listener is preferred to a poor talker." And every one who has observed good listeners or listened to poor talkers have come to the conclusion that the fellow knew what he was saying.

There is quite as much art in listening as there is in talking. Simply to remain quiet does not signify that one is listening. To listen means to pay attention. It implies that one is learning something. It is in line with the words of the wag concerning the owl, which runs something like this:

A wise old owl lived in an oak,
The more he heard the less he spoke;
The less he spoke the more he heard.
Why are we not like that wise old bird?
—Dayton News.

Fathoms Deep.

The boy yawned over his geography.

"How deep is the ocean?" he inquired, pointing to the center of the Pacific.

"Thousands of fathoms, my son—thousands."

"Well, how much is a fathom?"

"A fathom is—er—er—are you looking at the Pacific? Well, your Uncle Karl years ago was shipwrecked in the Pacific, and the pirates came out after him, and the cannibals—but I'm too busy now to tell you the story. Run along to bed." — St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

LABORATORY HAS ANTITOXIN SUPPLY

Dr. Raymond Sanderson of the Ulster County Pathological Laboratory has received from the state department a large supply of tetanus, typhoid and diphtheria antitoxin which is now at the disposal of the doctors of the county. The tetanus antitoxin is especially useful at this time as many of the accidents which occur around the Fourth of July due to explosions of fireworks are known to be followed in many cases by tetanus. An injection of tetanus antitoxin shortly after the injury will prevent an attack while injection of the antitoxin after the symptoms have developed is seldom effective. The tetanus antitoxin can be secured from Dr. Sanderson at any time by the doctors.

Thackeray's Twopenny Tart.

This Thackeray story is told by the late Charles Brookfield in his "Random Reminiscences." "Early in their married life," he writes, "my father and mother lived in lodgings in Jermyn street (he was curate at St. James' church at the time). One evening he unexpectedly brought home Thackeray for dinner and introduced him to my mother. She was rather overwhelmed by the knowledge that there was nothing in the house but a cold shoulder of mutton. It was too late to contrive anything more elaborate, so to 'give an air' to the table she sent her maid to a neighboring pastry cook's for a dozen tartlets of various kinds. 'Which of these may I give you?' she inquired in due course of Thackeray. 'Thank you, Mrs. Brookfield,' said he; 'I'll have a twopenny one.'"

SERMON BY STUDENT.

Carl Schleede to Preach in His Home Church Sunday Evening.

At the Livingston Street Lutheran Church, head of East Chestnut street, on Sunday evening, July 4, the sermon will be preached by Carl Schleede, student of theology, who by a nine years' course is preparing for the Christian ministry.

Mr. Schleede returned recently from Electra, Texas, where he was engaged in home mission work during a portion of the past scholastic year. He is now spending a well earned vacation at the home of his parents, 76 Crane street, this city. For the fall Mr. Schleede expects to return to St. Louis, Mo., to resume his theological studies at Concordia Lutheran Seminary.

Another of the young men of Immanuel Lutheran Church now preparing for the ministry is Lewis Wiedemann, whose parents live at Kingston Point. Mr. Wiedemann is at present assisting at home mission work in Saskatchewan, Canada. According to the printed reports of the mission board the young Kingstonian is doing faithful and efficient pioneer work at the frontier.

No word has been received as yet whether his work will permit him to return home for a vacation this summer. Mr. Wiedemann hopes to graduate from the St. Louis Theological Seminary in 1917.

Independence Day Services.

Independence Day will be observed in the Spring Street German Lutheran Church tomorrow. The subject of the sermon at the morning service will be "Vaterlandsliebe." The evening service will be held in English and the subject of the sermon will be "Christian Patriotism." Special organ and choir music will be rendered at both services.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, July 3.—One upon a Time there was Golfing Geezer named Heinrich Schmidt, Hailing from Worcester, Mass., who Discovered Golfing Foes by his Swishing and Other Dilatory Tactics, thus enabling him to Beat many of the Disconcerted ones. But there came a Time—just Recently—when the Swishing Schmidt was Outswished and beaten at his Own Game.

It happened on the well known Facific Coast. A Fellow named Harry K. B. Davis, the Champion of that Particular Section was the Party who Turned the Trick.

A swishing Golfer, let it be known, works something on the order of a Slow Baseball Pitcher. He takes his Time and Everybody else's Time. He spends Great Quantities of Time getting himself Set for his Stroke and His Putt. He is Deliberate and Slow to a Maddening Degree. His Slowness in Actually Hitting the Golf Ball and his many Practice Swings (swishes) before actually Clouting the Pill get his Foes rattled so to speak. That is the object of the Swisher. Having accomplished his object his Rattled Foe beomes Easy Prey for the Swisher.

Well, it came to Pass one day that Heinrich, the Swisher, encountered Davis, the usual Non-Swisher, in a Golfing Match. Heinrich started the game. He stepped to the Tee, measured the Driving Distance with his optics, walked all around the ball a couple of Times extracted his handkerchief, Blew his Nose, Hitched up his Belt, Adjusted his cap, Hitched his Belt again, Measured the Distance with his eye once more and then, like a man Suffering with Paralyzed Limbs walked into Driving Position. Having Arrived there Heinrich, the Swisher, took a Practice Swish. Then he took another and another.

Finally after Having Frivolled away about Ten minutes, Heinrich Actually Transacted the Business in Hand—that of Driving the Ball from the Tee.

And then Davis Approached the Tee. Davis is a Fast Golfer. That is to say he doesn't make a Practice of Frivolling. He usually gets down to the Golfing Business without Frivolling. But his Game with Heinrich, the Swisher, wasn't one of those Usual Davis Games. It was the unusual Game.

Davis planted his ball, after seeming to have a Lot of Trouble, getting it set Right. Then he Extracted his Handkerchief and blew his nose. Having done this he Blew his Nose again and again. Then he Hitched up his Trousers and Adjusted His Cap. Then he Readjusted his Cap and Rehitched his Trousers. Then he stretched his arms and yawned. Having yawned lazily and at Length he Hitched his Trousers again, Readjusted his Cap, and then after spending Heaps of Time measuring the Distance with his Eyes Stepped into Golfing Position.

And then Davis Stepped back and took a Swish. He took another Swish and another and another. In fact he took about Twice as many swishes as Heinrich, the Swisher had taken.

Finally Davis drove.

Heinrich, the Swisher, was wondering in the meantime, just what was coming Off. He'd Played many games and against many Foes but never had he Encountered a man who was Slower—and Deliberately slower—than Himself.

Eventually Heinrich arrived on the Green whereupon he performed some of his Dilatory Green Tactics. He flattened himself on the Real Estate and spent a Large Quantity of Time Measuring the Putt with his Peepers. Then he arose—slowly—and take a half dozen Practice Putt Swings. Then he Mopped his Brow with his Kerchief and Hitched up his Belt. Then he adjusted his Cap. Finally, after Wasting a Lot of valuable Time he Putted.

And then came Davis who went about the Putting Business with more Care and even Greater Deliberation than had Heinie. In fact, it took Davis three times as long to Get Through with the Preliminaries as it had taken Heinrich. Davis duplicated all of Heinrich's actions—and went him several better.

And So the Game went on. Everything that Heinrich did was done by Davis—only with even greater care and greater deliberation. And all the while Heinrich was growing a Bit more nervous and a Bit more Disconcerted. Something was amiss, decided Heinrich. Instead of his Disconcerting the Foe by his own Dilatory tactics the Foe was Out—Disconcerting him.

Heinrich fought off the Disconcerted Feeling as long as he could, but there is a Limit to all Things, and at the Last Hole, the Disconcerted Heinrich "cracked" and was Beaten—and at his Own Game.

Moral—If you have got a Little System that is designed to Beat the Other Fellow be sure that the Other Fellow Doesn't Cop your Patent and Beat you to it.
